

Your DIY Community

Version 2

What are people from Starchley and it's surrounding areas doing for themselves?

In our communities there is a growing abundance of creativity, energy and initiative. This is generating a vibrant network, of projects, community and grassroots groups, social enterprises, worker's cooperatives, and businesses that benefit the community and planet.

This map is just a snapshot of an organically growing and changing network. So new things will emerge, and new links will be made. In its current state its also non-exhaustive. There may be many things going on out there which we don't know about. If you're involved in one of them and would like to be added, please let us know and we will include you in any future publication of the updated map.

Also contact us if you wish to be involved in or notified of any relevant new community initiative, or want to find out about any groups displayed above.
